

I am Marcia Hilborn and I am the Home Economics Teacher at Franklin Phonetic School. I have approximately 35 years of teaching experience. I worked as a substitute for Chino Valley and Prescott school districts, especially with children with special needs. I helped start a Christian Preschool in Prescott where I was the assistant director and teacher. I worked for NACOG Head Start for 25 years as a teacher, education mentor, center director, Early Head Start Base Visitor, and Family Advocate. I worked with pregnant teens and young mothers teaching child development and parenting skills. I worked at another Christian preschool and daycare in Chino Valley as a teacher and last year at a Christian school as a reading teacher. I have been married for 52 years and have 2 grown children, 4 grandchildren, and am expecting my first great grandchild this month. I am currently serving on the governing board in Chino Valley.

My education is in early childhood development and education and in early childhood management. I also attended advanced early childhood education classes at NAU. I also attended 3 years of Bible School and I am an ordained minister of the Bible.
