Mrs. Yeager

This week we are featuring Mrs. Yeager, this is her ninth year at Franklin. She has been teaching for 13 years in many different places. She has taught in Japan, Canada and the United States. Mrs. Yeager has taught all grades from junior kindergarten (a full kindergarten program for 4 year olds) to grade 12. She even taught in a one room school house where she had 26 students in grades K-8. She has three girls but they are all too old to attend Franklin. Her oldest child is a junior at University of Arizona, the middle child is a freshman at South Dakota State University and their youngest is in tenth grade. Mrs. Yeager loves it when students try and never give up and she adores when all their hard work pays off and they get that difficult concept. She calls it an "aha moment." She recently changed her theme of her classroom from foxes to lemons and is looking forward to this school year and is reminding the students to "Squeeze the Day".
